in this critical edition and translation of nicole oresme s on seeing the stars the renowned 14th century natural philosopher proposes that the stars are not where they seem and perhaps nothing is where it seems in this earliest treatise on atmospheric refraction oresme uses optics and infinitesimals to help solve this vexing problem of astronomy he is the first to propose that light travels along a curve through the atmosphere two centuries before hooke and newton who are credited with the discovery further he calls all sense data into doubt oresme s argument concerning the curvature of light is a major milestone in the history of science confirming that oresme was one of the most innovative scientists of the pre modern world the stories the first play the show must go on cleverly mixes up sitcoms and real life by presenting us with an ostensibly authentic suburban family in which all the members read their lines from a stilted and hilariously dismal script trouble archaeological and anthropological investigations of depictions seldom extend beyond a single culture or a single geographical location although there is a powerful factor common to all depictions the factor of human perception in this volume an attempt is made to show how this factor affects both creation and recognition of depictions how in common with everyday vision of the environment typical contours are derived and used not merely to depict individually readily recognisable models but also how by concatenation they lead to such a splendid figure as australian kakadu crocodiles or by distortion to creation of illusions of pictorial depth such as is evoked by leonardo da vinci s perspective and by inverted byzantine perspective thought by some to be an aberration bartel s studies show that pictorial depth is often achieved to the artist s and many a viewer s but not to geometer s satisfaction by partial distortion and chinese masterpieces embody side by side normal and inverted perspective the visual process is universally uniform if it were not one would not be able to recognise an altamira bison as a bison and its foibles can be freely exploited its best known exploiter is probably cezanne his pictures are admired by many and puzzle many strzemiński postulated that they compound distinct lines of sight thus endorsing primacy of central vision a concept thought by gombrich to be of greater import to geometers than to artists
